What they were elected to and chosen for was to share in God's life and to accept the consequences of that sharing. We must accept those consequences in our own lives.

-Adrian Nocent OSB

Go see. Go hear. Go tell. Following Jesus involves movement, witnessing to his ministry, using our agency for positive change through word and deed. As we go, we must keep our eyes and ears open to what the world is telling us, so that in our going, we are prepared to authentically address the needs of others and of creation.

Alan Yarborough is the Communications Coordinator and Office Manager for The Episcopal Church's Office of “Jesus dared to make the radical claim that the hallmark of the kingdom was not people who all agreed but people who loved their enemies, the people with whom they did not agree (Matt. 5:44).”
